JPG, and Retouch Xpress. KEYING: KEYING in RoboKey is not about scanning. It is a key set creator for Photoshop® with the convenience of using your finger instead of a scanner. Using RoboKey, you can quickly get beautiful key sets. It's like having access to a large library of Photoshop® brushes. It does not require Photoshop®, and works independently. ROBOCOMPOSITING: Users can easily retouch in one seamless flow. Select the desired part of your photo in the Keying tool (T), adjust the curve (S), and retouch (R). With a set of three colored retouching brushes in each part of the adjustment, your image will be in excellent condition. ROBOTOUCHXPRESS: This is a powerful tool for retouching in a quick way. Use it to touch up the major parts, such as skin, eye, hair, clothes, and much more. In addition to the above, RoboKey supports Vectors, Paints, and Adjustments. Users can easily modify the appearance and size of a selection and the brightness, contrast, saturation, and much more. Where did you get this information? Tom i just want to know if this plugin have the option to put a pre-filter on the scanned image and key in to that image only the area I select on the scanned image. I was able to use the combination of the crop tool with the keying tool to get the desired result but that approach limits me from keying certain areas. Is there a way to automate this process? Or how would you do this with different background colours as the picture background changes? Luis i just want to know if this plugin have the option to put a pre-filter on the scanned image and key in to that image only the area I select on the scanned image. i want to use the plugin for what I just asked. 82157476af
